Options for Management Development Programmes

Certification Programme in Management

This Mini-MBA model is very much appreciated by the corporate world. This is a proven model of MDP of SIOM which covers 10 comprehensive modules covering functional and behavioral areas including Operations, Marketing, Behavior strategies and motivation, Finance and IT to foster development of current and competitive business perspectives and its futuristic practice. Such programmes have longer duration of 8-10 weeks of classroom inputs spread over a period of 6 to 12 months depending upon the convenience of the client. Companies may prefer late evening, early morning or weekend schedules. Practical assignments and exercises complement the classroom input and ensure that classroom concepts are applied in live business situations. The participants are evaluated at the end of such programmes and certified for their successful completion of the programmes.

Similar programs for supervisory and middle management level are also available.

Unit Based Programmes

SIOM offers Management Development Programmes to suit the company's specific needs in the form of Unit Based Programme (UBP). These are customized to the individual requirements of the company in terms of training area, content, time frame, and teaching pedagogy. The duration of such programmes may range from one day fast track training to a highly customized week long programme or even longer if required.
